The goal of this initial consultation is to explore the possibilities for enhancing your smile, discuss any concerns you might have, and outline potential treatment options before commitment of an in-person consultation.

Next Step: An In-Person Consultation

After our initial virtual consultation at NYC Smile Design, which helps determine if we are the right fit for your dental needs, the next step is an in-person consultation. This session, priced at $350, involves a comprehensive evaluation to start your personalized treatment plan and dental records.

To ensure the consultation is a valuable part of your smile journey, we offer a $400 discount on your treatment following the consultation, effectively enhancing the value of your investment from the start.
